

Allies' Pageant At Hero Land A Blaze of Color

320 Girls and Women in Georgeous Procession Feature Jewish Day

Italy's Exhibits Arrive

Sailors From Navy Yards to Spend Thanksgiving at Bazaar

A pageant and ball of the Allied nations last night was the principal event of Jewish Day at Hero Land, Grand Central Palace.

The main floor and balconies of the bazaar blazed with the colors of brilliant costumes and banners worn or carried by 320 girls and women. The procession that began the programme was nearly half an hour late, but worth the wait. Followed songs, speeches, national music and folk dances of the Allies.

Mme. Yoska, who was to have recited "Jeanne d'Arc," found the hall too large for her voice. Fifty French soldiers escorted her to the little French Palace on the fourth floor, where she gave Bernhard's famous "Porte Drapeau."

Saturday Is Italian Day

Word came in the afternoon to Mme. G. Paccardi, in charge of the Italian section, that twenty tons of wax used had arrived at the Customs. It will be arranged by Saturday—Italian Day, on the ground floor, and the exhibition will be opened by the guests of honor, the Italian Ambassador, Count Macchi di Cellere, and his wife; General Gugliermotti and Commander Varnutelli. In the evening they will be joined by Caruso for a spaghetti and ravioli party in the Italian restaurant, on the fourth floor.

Curious objects of art and otherwise, trimmed in gold or silver, are being found in Mrs. Henry Morgan's melting pot in the Jewish Wax Refinery. Mrs. Nathan Strauss, Mrs. Adolf Schiff and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin are among those who sent in reasonable relics of family life, culled from dining room and boudoir. Other contributions hastily dropped in the cauldron include safety razors, babies' rattles, sleighbells, futes, lorgnettes, mauldrills and shaving brushes and medals for forgotten deeds of skill or valor.

Camp Upton Band Plays

The afternoon programme of vaudeville had for headliners the 306th Infantry Band from Camp Upton, and Heslin, who released himself from a strait-jacket while hanging by the heels, with less trouble than the ordinary man makes about a sweater. Heslin says he has cancelled $80,000 worth of contracts and will appear only for charity during the duration of the war.

Young and good looking women continue to display vim and energy in the process of collecting money. Smiling but purposeful damsels sell chances on everything from feather beds to live-stock, leaping at you from all directions. The only safe place is the stairs, and many unfortunate spend hours walking up and down before gathering courage.

This procession interests the peasants and serfs attached to their feet to various steps of the middle stairway and is, in fact, their only amusement—although one stretched his neck around the corner yesterday afternoon to see Mrs. Vernon Castle, slim and smart, doing her bit in the Blue Cross booth.

To-day is Navy Day, arranged through the courtesy of Secretary Daniels. Sailors from navy yards in and near New York will hold boxing and wrestling bouts and see the skaters from St. Nicholas Rink, according to their wish. Many of them will eat their Thanksgiving dinner at the bazaar.

A New Theory of The Theatre Slump

A number of theatrical producers and managers have attempted to make light of the present depression in the theatrical business. Lee Shubert, while not ignoring its reality, in an interview yesterday ascribed its cause mainly to "a false cry," emanating from Washington and taken up by the newspapers, which has incited the public to needless economies.

"There is a jump in the theatrical business," declared Mr. Shubert, "and it is due to the false idea that we have been raised in Washington and in our daily newspapers. While there is need for the conservation of food, coal and other supplies, there is no reason why legitimate industries should be paralyzed."

The theatrical enterprise represents capital, and without capital the nation would be in a sorry plight. It is capital which supports the Liberty loan, and capital contributes to charities and other patriotic movements. Capital is needed to give employment to thousands of men and women and assist in raising the country's war loans, and they should have the public's support.

"This country has never before had so much money. Men and women are earning higher salaries than ever, and this money should be kept in circulation. I am in favor of economizing in the conservation of foodstuffs, but other vital resources, but not necessarily negotiated or transferred from one purchaser to another."

Commissioner Egan gave a liberal interpretation to the terms "immediate or prompt" by allowing twenty days from the date of sale or agreement before the transaction passes into the classification of fixtures.

An order will be issued within the next few days by Secretary McAdoo authorizing the payment of war and excess profits taxes in quarterly periods.

Under the provisions of the bill payments must be made not later than June 1, although payment in advance is authorized.

The stamp tax on documents and personal post packages becomes effective on Saturday, December 1.

Stamps may be purchased at present from the Collector's office in the Custom House. Later they will be on sale at postoffices and banks which have been designated as United States depositories.

Prof. Matthews's Funeral

Newspaper Men Attend Obsequies at Brooklyn Manor

JAMAICA, L. I., Nov. 28.—The funeral of Professor Franklin Matthews, professor of journalism in the School of Journalism of Columbia University, was held to-day from his home, 247 Manor Avenue, Brooklyn Manor, Queens. The Rev. Paul H. Land, pastor of the Woodhaven Reformed Church, officiated. Professor Matthews died suddenly last Monday while waiting for a train in the Pennsylvania station, New York City.

A number of newspaper men who had been associated with him during his newspaper career in New York attended the funeral. There were floral offerings from Columbia and Cornell Universities.

Brief services will be held at the home to-morrow morning before the removal of the body to the crematory at Fresh Pond, L. I. The honorary pallbearers include Chester Lord, Carl A. Van Andra, Edward Riggs and Robert E. MacAloney.

Capt. Bernard P. Sheldon

British Officer Representing English Firms Dies Here

Captain Bernard P. Sheldon, New York representative of the Associated British Clothing Manufacturers, Ltd., Leeds, England, since last April, died at the Lawrence Hospital in Bronxville, yesterday, following an operation for appendicitis.

He was formerly attached to the Black Watch Regiment of the British army and had been invalided home on account of wounds received in the present war. He served in the Gallipoli and Salonica campaigns, was wounded a number of times, and contracted trench fever.

Before the war Captain Sheldon had been closely identified with cotton manufacturing interests in Manchester and had been a representative in the Orient of the British mercantile banking house of Sassoon.

Captain Sheldon leaves his wife, who is in England.

Colonel William M. Morton

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 28.—Crawford Gettman, once the greatest manufacturer of window glass in this country, died to-day at his home in Cleveland, N. Y. He was eighty-four years old.

Reserve Officers to See "Doing Our Bit"

The Reserve officers who have just received their commissions at Plattsburgh after separating to enter various branches of the service, will visit the Winter Garden in a body on Friday night to see "Doing Our Bit." There are 115 members in the graduating class. Their guests will include Lieutenant Poire, of the Signal Corps, Major Ware and Captain Law, U. S. A., besides Captains Foss and Draper, of the instructors' staff, and Captains Glynn, Newson and Wallace, and Lieutenant Eggin, all of the U. S. Reserves. The class will meet at dinner before going to the theatre.

Smoky Air Puts Chicago In Darkness for Whole Day

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Save for two hours of gray, discouraged daylight this morning, downtown Chicago has been in darkness all day to-day. Nightfall could be distinguished from the day only by the clock. But notifications of the disaster occurred before, but now they have blanketed the whole day as this one.

The phenomenon was due to a combination of conditions—smoke in the air due to the burning of soft coal, low-lying clouds which kept the smoke from rising, and the absence of wind to disperse it.

U. S. Issues New War Stamp Rules

Regulations Affecting All Stock Exchanges Become Effective on Saturday

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Tentative regulations, for guidance of stock and produce exchanges and boards of trade in the administration of war stamp taxes, effective next Saturday on all sales and transfers, were issued to-night by Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper.

To-day is Navy Day, arranged through the courtesy of Secretary Daniels. Sailors from navy yards in and near New York will hold boxing and wrestling bouts and see the skaters from St. Nicholas Rink, according to their wish. Many of them will eat their Thanksgiving dinner at the bazaar.

A New Theory of The Theatre Slump

The regulations were framed with the intention of preventing the escape of tax payments, and at the same time of making it as easy as possible for brokers and exchanges to affix the proper revenue stamps to sales or exchange documents and render the required accounting. It is estimated nearly $100,000,000 will be raised from the tax.

Every broker, exchange, clearing house and person engaged in stock transactions is required to register with the internal revenue collector of the district next Saturday, when the provisions become effective. Each then must keep strict account of the amount and nature of all dealings and report to the collector on the 15th of each month.

Stamps may be bought only from the collector on formal requisition, and by comparison of the monthly reports with stamp purchases it will be possible for tax officials to ascertain whether any evasion of the tax is attempted.

The rules for produce or merchandise sales, capital and without capital, are virtually the same as for stock exchanges. Under the revenue law no tax is imposed on cash sales of produce for immediate or prompt delivery, but there is a tax on stocks, whether originally negotiated or transferred from one purchaser to another.

Mr. Untermyer suggested amendments to the law relating to campaign contributions, providing that all campaign loans and contributions should be made public five days before election, and that the individual contributions be limited to a certain sum. Also, that it be made a crime for any person to contribute otherwise than directly and in his own name.

Police Baffled by Disappearance in West Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—The police here are mystified by the disappearance of Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Feiger, of West Philadelphia, seen to last night.

They left an unopened envelope occupied by them were raised twelve inches. Their clothing was untouched and they did not bother even to take hats or coats with them.

Mrs. Margaret King, of Stratford, Ill., mother of Mrs. Feiger, last heard from her daughter on August 1.

Mrs. King came to this city last Saturday. She questioned the neighbors, who told her the couple had not been seen since the latter part of October. After waiting two days Mrs. King appealed to the police.

The stamp tax on documents and personal post packages becomes effective on Saturday, December 1.

Stamps may be purchased at present from the Collector's office in the Custom House. Later they will be on sale at postoffices and banks which have been designated as United States depositories.

Untermyer Calls Mitchel Expenses a Disgrace

Samuel Untermyer, prominent in the Tammany camp during the recent mayoralty campaign, issued a statement yesterday in which he criticized the expenditure of approximately $1,300,000 for the Mitchel-Fusion cause as "scandalous." He declared the matter called for immediate attention at the hands of the Legislature.

The expenditure of the stupendous sum of $1,300,000 by one political faction in the city election is disgraceful and indefensible," he said. "It is scandalous, first of all, which in normal times would cause public attention. No such fabulous sum could possibly have been used with honest intent."
